HEALTH CENTER OFFICIALS SYMBOLICALLY BROKE GROUND last Friday to mark the start of the renovation of the former A&P building, on Railroad Street, into a newer and bigger health center. The project, to cost $312,000, will be completed by October. Above are: contractor Jim Knight, John Mason (chairman of the health center's Facilities Committee), Shirley Powell (director of the health center), John Head (president of the center and Herb Kittredge (of the Facilities Committee).

Groundbreaking held for new health center

Groundbreaking ceremonies for the new Bethel Area Health Center took place last Friday at the former A&P building, purchased by the health center last year for $35,000.

Work will soon begin to remodel the former Railroad Street supermarket into an improved and larger health center to serve Bethel and surrounding communities. Health Center President John Head said he expects the work to be completed by October and hopes the staff will move into the new facility soon thereafter. The present health center building will be put up for sale by sealed bid within the next few months.

The new facility will have an emergency room, lab equipment, additional examination rooms and visiting doctors' offices and x-ray equipment.

The major work to be done during the renovation includes putting on a pitched roof, putting in a new floor, installing a new furnace, plus other mechanical and electrical services.

After four years of hard work and planning, members of the Facilities Committee were pleased to be able to sign a contract with Rumford Point contractor Jim Knight two weeks ago. (See story in last week's Citizen.) The contract price of $312,000 is very close to the original budget of $307,000.

The committee is particularly happy that the contract went to a local contractor. continued on Page Three

Last (?) snowfall of the season leaves farewell note of 2 inches

Sunday's low-pressure passage left two inches of wet snow in the Bethel area, and Sunday River skiiway's Wendie Gray quickly toted up the season's figures. She figured, she said, it would be the last figuring she would have to do with snowfall amounts until next fall.

Here are her totals:

- 124 inches at the top of Barker Mountain; this compares with 127½ inches for the 1984-85 season;
- 102 inches at South Ridge lodge.

Ms. Gray, the marketing director for the skiiway, said the snowfall amounts for the past two seasons are probably going to be typical amounts in the coming years. The huge snowfalls of years past are just that, she said: past.

Nevertheless, with the tons of snow being made by the skiiway, even modest amounts of natural white stuff can be stretched a long ways. Ms. Gray reports there is still 10 feet of snow at the intersection of the trails T-2 and Monday Morning. This means, she said, there should still be skiing into May, which is what the management of the skiiway is planning.

Last chance for ads in tourism tabloid

Advertisers who would like to get their messages before 35,000 families north of Boston have only until this Friday, April 11, to contact The Citizen office (824-2444). That is the deadline for advertising in this summer's tourism tabloid being published by Citizen Press.

The full-color tabloid will go on the press later this month. Distribution will begin the first week of May, with the tabloid being inserted in the hometown papers of the more affluent towns on Boston's north shore.

Local businesspeople credit The Citizen's tourism tabloids with helping bring additional tourism business to the Bethel area.

Androscoggin now swimmable, says DEP

As the result of legislative action last week, the Androscoggin River has been declared swimmable by the state.

A Department of Environmental Protection official told The Citizen: "It's not as swimmable as other rivers, but it is swimmable."

David Courtemanch, an aquatic biologist with the DEP, said the river has been improving in quality since the paper mills began cleaning up their discharges in the late-1970s.

The Legislature last week amended the classifications of the state's bodies of water and, in so doing, did away with any classifications that don't meet minimum federal standards. These minimum standards are that a body of water be fishable and swimmable.

The Androscoggin River, a Class C body of water, has been fishable the past few years—though because of dioxin from mill discharges, DEP discourages people from eating more than one fish a week from the river. The river has not been considered swimmable, however, because bacteria tests consistently showed unacceptable levels of bacteria.

"Essentially it is sort of a bookkeeping change," said the DEP's Courtemanch, "in that we (now) have a test that looks just at fecal coliform (rather than bacteria in general)."

Earlier tests would pick up bacteria from mill discharges as well as fecal matter, Mr. Courtemanch said, and this confused the results.

The DEP official said it seemed doubtful that the Androscoggin River would get much better than it is now. To reach Class B status, it would have to have more dissolved oxygen in it, and this could only be achieved if the paper mills would vastly improve their discharges.

Andover voters refuse to accept new ladder truck

In a stunning upset of what had seemed to many a mere formality, Andover voters last night refused to accept the new ladder truck purchased by the Andover Firemen's Association.

The 1948 American LaFrance ladder truck was purchased by the association from the Pittsfield, N.H., fire department for $4,000 and is in perfect working condition. The firemen expected it to replace the 1934 Ford ladder truck currently in use.

The more than 40 voters at the special town meeting did not discuss the issue at all. The first vote—a standing vote—had an equal number of yay's and nay's. However, on a secret ballot, the "no" votes prevailed, 23-18. A motion to reconsider the question was considered possibly out of order by the moderator and the selectmen, and they decided to research the legality of such a motion. (A motion to reconsider can only be made by the party whose side prevailed in the original vote. In a secret ballot it would be impossible to determine who voted which way.)

With the major question defeated, voters also defeated the companion article on having the town relinquish control of the older ladder truck and letting the firemen's association dispose of it. Thus, there are now two ladder trucks in the fire station, but only the older one is insured by the town and can be used at fires.

Special town meeting voters also voted to make the Assessors Advisory Board an appointed, rather than elected, body. Gary Williamson was elected moderator of the meeting.

NOVA PUBLIC HEARINGS BEING HELD AT MEXICO & TELSTAR

The citizens of the four area school units, SAD #21, SAD #43, SAD #44 and Union #25 will have an opportunity to view Vocational Region 9's proposed budget for the 1986-87 school year, at two upcoming public hearings. The budget will be presented and questions regarding the proposed expenditures will be answered.

The meetings are scheduled as follows:

- Tuesday, April 15—Lecture Hall at Mexico High School, 7 p.m.
- Thursday, April 17—Lecture Hall at Telstar Regional High School, 7 p.m.

NOVA Administrator Iver Carlsen, encourages the residents of the four area school units to attend one of the hearings.

SAD 17 budget to come before W. Paris officials

The West Paris Board of Selectmen will meet with Dr. Kenneth Smith, superintendent of SAD #17, and Marjorie Medd, chairman of the board of directors of SAD #17, tomorrow night (Thursday) at 7 p.m. in the town office to discuss the proposed schools budget.

Selectman Duane Abbott will meet with representatives from the architectural firm of A.J. Harriman Associates, Inc. and H.E. Callahan Construction, Inc., both of Auburn, Friday at 10 a.m. at the West Pals Library to inspect the leaky roof. The two firms were involved in the 1974 repair work done on the roof.

The selectmen voted last Thursday night to purchase a 16-horsepower Ariens lawnmower from Western Auto, of Norway, for $2,838.93. The board received five other bids—none from West Paris, but one from Coolidge Bros., of Bethel. The board accepted the resignation of Bob Kirchherr from the West Paris Appeals Board and appointed him to the Planning Board.

The selectmen also discussed the shade tree program. They will contact the Oxford County Extension Service to inquire about obtaining shade trees to replace the diseased trees throughout the town.

Finally, the selectmen signed a warrant for prosecuting unlicensed dog owners. Dogs must be licensed by April 11.

April 17 open house planned at Telstar middle/high school

Parents are cordially invited to attend the Spring Open House at Telstar Middle and High School for Thursday, April 17, from 6:30-9:30. A new format will be introduced designed to improve relations and participation.

The evening's program will highlight a Maine Assessment Test Interpretation for parents of eight graders, a coffee social hosted by the Telstar Spirit organization (a parent/teacher/student group), a half hour music program coordinated by Harry Davis, distribution of third quarter report cards and conference time with teachers. Student Council members from both schools will be available that evening as guides and assistants.

'DON'T DUMP ON Me.' angry residents tell DOE

All along the way to Lake Region High School, yellow signs were stuck into the ground, tacked on the sides of houses and stapled to utility poles. The signs read: "DON'T DUMP ON Me."

Inside the high school on Saturday and Sunday, residents of western Maine gave Department of Energy officials the same message: burying high-level radioactive wastes underground is bad policy; burying such lethal wastes in Maine would be particularly bad for this area since the area boasts a healthy environment, and the pure waters running through the ground beneath Sebago Lake supply the faucets of Portland.

On Feb. 10, when the DOE first appeared at LRHS for a briefing of area residents on why the 385-square-mile area around Sebago Lake had been selected as one of 12 candidates for a second waste repository, 3,000 people came out to jeer the federal bureaucrats and cheer the oppositionists.

DOE officials were expecting 3,000 people to show up again. But, in fact, the numbers of people in the gym at any one time never exceeded 500, and the total number of people who came to the hearing over the course of the weekend was about 2,000, according to school officials. Still, that is considerably better than the 300 who showed up for the hearing in Portland.

Because DOE had so many people who wanted to speak, the officials decided early last week to spread the hearing over two days—Saturday and Sunday. (Their announcement of this change in plans arrived by mail at The Citizen office Saturday.)

The arguments presented to the DOE officials during the two days were basically few in number.

As enunciated by State Rep. Kelley Simpson (D-Casco), those arguments are: the population density in the Sebago Lake area is greater than stated in the draft report; the geological foundation is unstable and therefore the nuclear waste could get into the underground aquifers and spread throughout western Maine and into the Atlantic Ocean; the roads are inadequate to handle the three semi-trucks per day that would bring in the waste for 30-40 years; Portland's population depends on a clean and reliable supply of water, which it now gets from the aquifer beneath Sebago Lake; the summer tourism population comes to the area because of its environmental purity.

Rep. Simpson also summarized the feelings of area residents: "Your (draft area recommendation) report has made us feel shock, anger and resolve to fight back... Your draft report is inadequate... Our children, and their children, will never, never live on top of a nuclear waste dump."

He got a healthy round of applause for his outburst. He also got taken to task by County Commissioner Norman Ferguson Jr., of Hanover, who said: "Nothing is served by state representatives getting up here and trying to politicize this. More is gained by a factual presentation." He noted that the Oxford County Commission is against having the nuclear waste dump in western Maine.

Gary Plummer, a Cumberland County commissioner, sided with Rep. Simpson, however, rather than with Commissioner Ferguson. He told the DOE officials: "If you think you've seen emotion continued on Page Three

Former bowling alley sold to Mass. woman

The former Central Alleys, on Main Street, Bethel, was sold last week to Yvonne Bastianelli, of the greater Boston area. The seller was Michelle Keyes; Gillies Realty and Maine Street Realty co-brokered the sale.

After the bowling alley closed a couple of decades ago, the storefront also was used as a barber shop, Charlie's Pizza, a dance studio, and—temporarily—Democratic Party headquarters.

Ms. Bastianelli owns a firm called Restoration Realty, which specializes in restoring old buildings. Her plans for the former bowling alley are not yet definite, but she is said to be thinking of re-doing the outside, dividing the space into three storefronts and adding an apartment upstairs.

event will include a day and a half of programs, Saturday lunch, and overnight lodging. The conference is designed specifically for organizations dependent on the use of volunteers and will cover such topics as "burn-out," motivating volunteers, and creative ways of finding new volunteer pools.

A limited amount of financial aid is available for those wishing to attend the Working Conference for Volunteer Development. For further information and to register contact Robin Zinchuk at the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce, 824-2222.

Opinions

Censorship goes to referendum

The proposed legislation to make it a crime to keep on hand copies of books, magazines or films that some might consider obscene failed to win approval in the state Legislature and will now go on the November ballot as a referendum. The measure, for which the Christian Civic League collected more than the required number of signatures to get it on the ballot, aims to stamp out the distribution of pornography in Maine.

The problem with the proposal is the absence of a clear-cut notion of what is pornography. The measure would categorize as obscene that which a select group of censors consider obscene. Here is what the "Maine Times" had to say about this concept:

"One does not need a long memory to recall what was considered pornographic 20 to 30 years ago and was therefore banned in this country: James Joyce's Ulysses, D.H. Lawrence's Lady Chatterly's Lover, Edmund Wilson's Memoirs of Hecate County, etcetera. Those books do indeed express unconventional sexual ideas and do contain passages, that, if taken out of context, could be viewed as appealing to the prurient interest. They are, in fact, 'dirtier' than more recent targets of censors who have attacked books such as The Catcher in the Rye more for its anti-authority ideas than for its sparing use of four letter words.

"And we will plead guilty right now. All of these books are on our bookshelves and if someone really wanted to enforce the law, on the basis of our printed statement, under the proposed law, they could secure a search warrant and find six or more books of similar content in our home and at least make a case that by such possession we had intended to sell or distribute.

"Those with a memory span going back even to the early '60s can recall a publisher going to jail for printing what would now be accepted as routine (a photograph of a black man and a white woman, nude, seen from the waist up).

"It is not paranoia to see obscenity ordinances as a threat to free speech; it is a recognition of historic fact."

It's not over 'til it's over

While the hearings by the federal Department of Energy to collect comments on its draft area recommendation report, recommending 12 areas in seven states (two areas in Maine) as contenders for a possible second nuclear waste repository, continue around the country, the shouting is over for western Maine.

But that doesn't mean the battle—or the war—is over. The state is still in federal court trying to extend the commenting period by a few more months. (It is scheduled to end April 16.) When the final report is issued, probably next fall, whatever states are still among the candidates will set to work again, either to stop DOE from making tests—such as test borings—or to make sure the tests show that the area in question is unsuitable for a repository.

Hopefully, the congresspeople who originally voted for the act giving the DOE the power to site and operate one and possibly two repositories, will reconsider. The basic idea that lethal wastes can be buried deep underground and be expected to stay in one place for 10,000 years is a foolish concept to begin with. (The canisters holding the lethal materials are expected to be eaten through in 300 years, according to DOE estimates. After that, it is just the granite between the nuclear waste and the environment.) The law that embraces this concept should be repealed.

Meanwhile, we asked a DOE official whether this whole public affairs program of having briefings and hearings was anything more than an exercise in good public relations. (We noted that the 16 DOE officials and staffers who came to listen to the complaints of people in western Maine holed up in the Sonesta Hotel in Portland—far from the area they were here to learn more about.) The official, Roger Gale, director of the Office of Policy and Outreach, said the DOE is taking the comments on the draft quite seriously and will make whatever changes seem called for before issuing the final report. "We can change it completely," he said. He said the commenting period has been a learning period for the DOE. "We have no sense at all that we know much," he admitted.

State Sen. Judy Kany believes the final report will still have at least one Maine site included on the list of candidates. But if the facts presented by scientists on the shallowness and fragility of the granite deposits in the areas under question are given serious consideration, it's certainly within the realm of possibility that the state may get off the list completely.

This, of course, would not be the end of the problem. There is still the problem of all the lethal wastes produced by the military establishment and the utility companies and what to do with them. Burying them for 10,000 years, anywhere, does not seem a viable solution.

There is an interesting, and important, footnote to the entire issue. That is, reactions from the various states included as candidates in the DOE draft plan. According to Director Gale, the agency has been getting an average of 100 letters a week opposing the DOE plan. Seventy to 80 percent of these letters come from Maine, he told The Citizen. "They're good letters, mostly," he commented.

He also pointed out that the Maine reaction has caught the attention of the national media more so than the reaction of any of the other states. "You people have succeeded in focusing more attention (by the media) than any other state. You're all very effective up there." He said this seemed to have to do with the nature of Maine geopolitics. "You have an issue that's really a statewide issue. You don't have the urban-rural split (typical of other candidate states)," he said.

It should be noted that much of the energy Mr. Gale commented on has been galvanized by the towns and opposition groups in western Maine. We trust they will keep up their fight, knowing that it's not over 'til it's over.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

A special thank you is in order for Senator R. Donald Twitchell and his staff, and for the citizens of the Town of Woodstock, for the personal recognition that was shown me at our recent Town Meeting, for my service to the town as selectman.

It is very touching and rewarding to the recipient when something of this nature takes place.

I'm sure everyone will be pleased with the performance of you present board and their handling of our transition to town manager government in March '87. Once again thanks to you all.

Ethel M. Davis

To the Editor:

The Bureau of Land Management (BLM) is appealing to the public in New England to adopt wild horses and burros. The animals are suffering from overpopulation on public rangelands in the west, so BLM is rounding up the excess and shipping them to other states in an attempt to find them good homes.

A temporary adoption center will be held near Springfield, Mass., May 16 through 18. We'll have 100 mustangs and 75 burros up for adoption at a fee of $125 per horse and $75 per burro, which helps cover the costs of round-up, shipping, and veterinary care.

JODREY PARTICIPATES IN GALLANT KNIGHT '86

Army Pvt. Dwayne E. Jodrey, son of Rosemary S. Casavant of Andover, has participated in Gallant Knight '86, a U.S. Central Command sponsored exercise held at Fort Bragg, N.C.

The exercise is designed to provide opportunities for commanders and staffs to refine staff procedures for conducting joint military operations in a hypothetical environment.

Jodrey is a vehicle driver with the 1st Corps Support Command at Fort Bragg, N.C.

He is a 1985 graduate of Telstar Regional High School.

GRADUATES FROM USAF COURSE

Airman 1st Class Kevin M. Costelloe, son of Terrence E. and Cathrine R. Costelloe of Rural Route 2, Leicester, N.C., has graduated from the U.S. Air Force course for information systems specialists at Keesler Air Force Base, Miss.

Graduates from the course learned how to operate and maintain electronic data processing equipment, and earned credits toward an associate degree in applied science through the Community College of the Air Force.

His wife, Vickie, is the daughter of David Wentworth of Gardiner, Maine, and Marry Wentworth of Bryant Pond, Maine.

He is a 1976 graduate of Satellite High School, Satellite Beach, Fla.

Loving Memories
Your gentle voice and patient smile
With sadness we recall
You had a kindly word for each
And died beloved by all.
The voice is mute and stilled the heart,
That loved us well and true,
Ah, bitter was the trial to part
From one so good as you.
You are not forgotten loved one
Nor will you ever be,
And as long as life and memory last
We will remember thee.
We miss you, our hearts are sore,
As time goes by, we miss you more,
Your loving smile, your gentle face,
No one can fill your vacant place.

From the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce

The board of directors of the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce met Tuesday, April 8, at 7:30 a.m. at Bethel Furniture Stock.

Robin Zinchuk and MaryBeth Bayerlein went to Augusta on March 27 for Chamber of Commerce Day. They met with the state representative and the topic of the proposed two percent additional sales tax on lodging was discussed. At the Tuesday morning meeting it was decided that a letter would be drafted to send to the office of the governor to find out exactly where this money would be going.

The chamber's monthly newsletter will be coming out shortly and attached to it will be a business survey questionnaire. It would be of great help if everyone would take a few minutes to fill it out, so that the chamber can report back where the money in the Bethel area is being spent.

Plans are getting underway for the Big E Agricultural Fair, Sept. 20-21, 1986 in Springfield, Mass. Bethel chamber is contacting other chambers in the western part of the state to go into this together. It felt that it is very important to attend so that people can get more information on western Maine.

Remember, anyone who is interested, should get their advertising copy to The Citizen for the summer tabloid before Friday, April 11.

The committee for the annual banquet has also made plans to have the affair on Friday, May 30 with Eric Wight as guest speaker. Mr. Wight is the author of the "Maine Game Warden." The time and place have not been decided.

Final plans for the magazine "Exploring Maine" are being done. Bethel area businesses and the chamber will have a full page advertisement. This publication is for summer/fall issue. In the past it has brought in a lot of inquiries.

The next meeting of the chamber directors will be at Bethel Furniture Stock on Tuesday, April 22, 7:30 a.m. All are invited. The chamber can only know what ideas or suggestions you may have if you let them know.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Brown have gone to Maryland to visit her sister, and other relatives while there.

Mrs. Frances Grant took me to see my doctor in Harrison Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Grant went to Lewiston Saturday.

Mrs. Grace Nelson has been moved from the hospital to a nursing home in Bridgton.

Albert Nelson attended a cemetery meeting in Albany one night night week.

Mrs. Helen Jewell called on friends here Thursday.

Juanita P.C. Club met at the home of Arlene Merrill Tuesday, April 1. Ten members enjoyed a delicious dinner followed by the regular meeting chaired by President Minerva Dudley. Arlene Merrill served as treasurer for the meeting. Much planning for the various projects—meetings and duties that will take place during the year—was discussed and dates established, and responsibilities determined. The next meeting will be held with Elizabeth Stearns May 6.

Hannah F. Richardson Tent #19, D. of U.V., met March 26 at the K. of P. Hall with 10 members present.

Much time at this meeting was spent outlining the plans for Dept. Convention as the death of Dept. President Edith Rolfe made necessary changes in responsibility of members next in line.

President Mary Jones announced a council meeting for department planning Saturday, April 12, at Bean's Restaurant in South Paris, 10:30 a.m. followed by dinner.

Minerva Dudley and Elizabeth Stearns had made a new drape for the charter which is very beautiful. The tent expressed thanks to them.

Margaret Jones and Eloise Vail served delicious refreshments following the meeting.

Eleanor Nelson and Hildred Safford will serve at the next meeting on April 23.

THANK YOU

Thank you very much to relatives, friends, church and Community Club members, for all the cards, flowers, fruit basket, notes of encouragement and prayers while I was hospitalized and since my return home. All is much appreciated.

MAINE RETIRED TEACHERS OFFERING SCHOLARSHIPS

The Maine Retired Teachers Association will award this year a $500 scholarship, in addition to the usual scholarships of $500 each to high school seniors.

This new scholarship, first awarded this year, will be given to a person who is undertaking further education, either to return to teaching or to teach for the first time. An applicant must submit a letter of application that includes relevant biographical and personal information, previous education, experience, institution where study is being undertaken, and names of three people who might furnish references.

Besides this scholarship, the Maine Retired Teachers Association awards three scholarships of $500 each to high school seniors who enter college in the fall to prepare for a teaching career. Earl W. Higgins, retired principal of the Lisbon Falls High School, and chairman of the MTRTA Scholarship Committee, in commenting on the scholarship awards, has stressed their value to education and to the community. "This sort of financial aid can be particularly helpful to highly motivated people whose ambition to teach might not be achieved without scholarship assistance. The community and the teaching profession both benefit when these people become available to the schools."

Applications for the adult scholarships may be sent to Earl W. Higgins, Ridge Road, Lisbon Falls, Maine 04252, or to John E. Annett, President, MTRTA, 404 Turner Street, Auburn, Maine 04210. The high school seniors are handled through the schools.

OXFORD POMONA

Oxford Pomona met with the Norway Grange April 1 with 56 in attendance. The host Grange furnished a delicious supper before the meeting. As the honored citizens were in waiting, the program was held early. These were the County Commissioners, Albert Carey and Norman Ferguson. Reginald Day was unable to attend.

The program included a welcome by the Worthy Master, Hazel Conant; introduction of special guests, David Hartford and wife Priscilla, William Clark and Virginia, deputies, and Ruby Whitney, CWA state member. The lecturer, Anna Henderson read how the Grange was begun, then the community award was presented to the commissioners of Oxford County by the Deputy David Hartford. Gail Butterfield gave a reading on the Grange and Mr. Hartford spoke on membership and the Grange. The Master presented him with a jar of pickles so he would never be out of them.

Other speakers were Deputy William Clark; CWA member Ruby Whitney; Francis Conant, Pomona Deputy. Lewis Woodworth rendered a solo. The lecturer asked for 12 volunteers for a stunt involving string. Carl and Lettie Brooks presented a skit. A candle lighting ceremony was presented by the officers. "In the Garden" was rendered by Lewis Woodworth, with the members singing along on the chorus and the closing thought ended the program. A plant hanger was auctioned by Francis Conant and it went to Frank Rackliff.

The Grange was called back to order. Announcements by the CWA committee were for the different Granges to have their prize apple pie and aprons and sewing at the May meeting at Bear Mountain Grange for judging. The fifth degree will be given then. May 4 in the afternoon at Oxford Grange there will be a rehearsal for degrees. "Go to Church Sunday" will be at the Methodist Church April 20. Gail Butterfield's mother, Mrs. Briggs, passed away recently. She belonged to Lakeside Grange, Harrison. Sick members reported were Norman Hill, who is in the hospital; Josephine Tripp, treasurer; Evelyn Johnson, Madeline Jewles, Evelyn Jackson and Madeline Jacobs.

A Shop and Save supper will be held soon. Watch for the date and place. The May meeting will be at Bear Mountain Grange.

tor familiar with the community's needs and one who will utilize local workers. Members of the Facility Committee are: John Mason, chairman, Tom Gibbs, Arnie Brown, Herb Kittredge, Steve and Lynda Chandler, Les Otten and Pixie Williams, health center medical director. Mr. Kittredge has been appointed clerk of the works, acting on behalf of the health center trustees, to oversee the renovation job.

During the groundbreaking ceremonies, President Head also acknowledged the hard work of the Fund-raising Committee last summer. Chaired by Carolyn Holden, the committee exceeded its goal of $98,600, raising $106,000 locally. Another $50,000 was given by the Bingham Foundation. Mr. Head commented that the generosity of the community, which has made the renovation project possible, was deeply appreciated by the Health Center's Board of Trustees. He is looking forward to the opening of the new center in the fall and the opportunity for all those contributors to visit the center during opening ceremonies.

Mr. Head further urged interested community residents to feel free to keep in touch with the trustees regarding progress on the renovation project. He believes strongly that the health center is a community project and that individual trustees would welcome the opportunity to talk to residents about the center, its programs, facilities and services.

Rotary Club notes

The Bethel Rotary Club held its regular luncheon meeting at the Sudbury Inn on Tuesday, April 8.

Visiting Rotarians and guests joining with the group this week were: Anne Courschene, guest of Bill Clough, and Sara Buckman, guest of Dewaine Craig. Anne and Sara were presented with cash awards as the winners in the letters for peace contest.

The program chairman was John Todd. He talked about his trip to Moscow and Siberia in 1979, as a military escort, while he was stationed in Washington, D.C. John described the trip and visit as a fascinating experience. The life styles and attitudes of the Russian people are in severe variance from that of the western world. He found the people of Siberia to be much more open and friendly to American visitors. The color slides presentation highlighted the main points

BASKETRY IN ANDOVER

A special two-evening workshop on basket making, sponsored by SAD #44 Adult and Community Education and taught by basket expert Jan Todd, will be held at the Andover school May 12 and 14 from 6:30-9:30 p.m. Fundamentals will be learned through construction of an egg basket. Participants should bring an awl, rose slippers, and a bowl to soak the reeds in. Class is limited, pre-registration is required. Call the Andover school, 392-4381, to register.

so far, wait 'til you come in and try to take this land from us... We will not allow you to bury this deadly waste here in the State of Maine."

Townsend Southard, representing the Bridgton Chamber of Commerce added: "The project doesn't deserve to be built anywhere in this country."

Actually, the project—that is, the second high-level nuclear waste repository—cannot be built anywhere unless Congress authorizes it. By the terms of the 1982 Nuclear Waste Policy Act, the DOE is directed to develop and operate a single repository, which seems likely to be destined for Washington, Nevada or Texas. The DOE is also authorized to suggest a site for a second repository, in case the Congress decides a second one is needed. It is this second sitting process that Maine and six other eastern and central states are involved in.

Originally there were 235 areas in 17 states being looked at on the basis of their known granite sub-structures. Going by the description of these areas in published works, the DOE reduced the number to the current 12 areas in seven states. These were announced in the draft area recommendation report released in January.

Following the current round of hearings being held throughout the east and midwest, the DOE will set to work turning the draft area recommendation report into the final area recommendation report. It is possible for one or more areas among the 12 in the draft to be eliminated as the report is re-worked.

That is the hope of the opponents of the DOE plan. The Lake Region Alliance Against Nuclear Dumps pledged to file suit against the DOE if the Sebago Lake area is still among the 12 candidate areas when the final report is issued.

of interest.

Rotary information was given by Romeo Baker. His subject dealt with workmanship in various forms.

Rotary information chairman next week will be Bob Saunders.

Rotarians and wives are reminded that the Ladies' Night Social will be held Tuesday, April 29. The sign-up sheet will be available at the luncheon meeting next week, so get your menu choices firmed up.

PASTURE MANAGEMENT CLASS TO BE OFFERED APRIL 14

A one night class on Pasture Management taught by Stan Gates of SCORE will be offered through SAD #44 Adult and Community Education on Monday, April 14, from 7-9 p.m. at Telstar Regional High School. Information will be given on establishing, evaluating, and maintaining pastureland as an integral part of the farm or homestead. To pre-register call 824-2780.

Once the final report is issued—originally expected in July, but now probably postponed until November, officials said—DOE scientists will get to work in earnest, studying each candidate area for three to four years. Then the remaining candidates will be reduced to five or less. Among these finalists may be potential sites identified for the first repository but not used in that project.

While a few speakers saw a need for nuclear power and for a repository for storing the waste (but not in Maine), most disliked the idea of nuclear power as much as the idea of having to deal with the waste. And most said the lethal wastes already produced by the weapons manufacturers and the utilities should be kept above ground where they could be watched rather than burying them below ground where they could spread throughout the environment.

Peter Lowell, of the Lakes Environmental Association, termed the planned repository "The largest and most dangerous public works project in the history of mankind."

Richard Merk, of the Lake Region Anti-Nuclear Fund, told the DOE officials that the group had collected about $275,000 to fight the DOE plan in and out of court. He noted that $82,000 of this has come from towns in the area, appropriated by their town meetings.

Bonnie Titcomb, of Citizens Against Nuclear Trash, pointed out to the DOE officials that the influx of thousands of workers would put tremendous pressures on local communities. Finances would be strained providing schooling for the children of these workers; the cost-of-living would go up as housing would become very scarce and housing prices would go up drastically; the social fabric of the communities would be strained by the influx of so many outsiders. The communities would be under additional stresses when the repository was finished and all the workers left.

One woman noted that rare plants and animals, identified and protected by the U.S. government, would have their habitats threatened by a nuclear dump. And Charles Ipcar, of the Maine Nuclear Referendum Committee, noted that the digging up of all that granite to permit the burial of 70,000 metric tons of nuclear waste (encased in containers weighing many times more than that) would leave a huge problem of granite tailings. It would also release deadly radon gas from beneath the surface of the earth.

The most telling argument—judging from the reaction of DOE officials—was made by a representative of the Greater Portland Council of Governments. While Portland people generally have shown little enthusiasm for tackling the issue (only 300 showed up for the DOE hearing in Portland two weeks ago), the Council of Governments set about carefully studying population densities in the 385-square mile area encompassed by the Sebago Lake granite sub-structure being considered by the DOE.

What the group's researchers found

OXFORD COUNTY COMMISSIONER NORMAN FERGUSON JR. addresses the DOE officials at last weekend's hearing on the agency's draft area recommendation report, which includes two Maine areas among 12 candidates for a possible high-level nuclear waste repository.

was that 29 small areas within the larger area have population densities of 400-599 people per square mile. "A nuclear waste repository would have a hard time fitting in between the high-density areas," the group's representative, a Mr. Carter, said.

According to the 1980 census, the greater Portland council discovered, there were 51,000 people within the 385-square-mile area. The 1985 estimate of population in the area is 58,000. If summer residents are included, the population is 144,000. This produces a year-round, overall density of 77 people per square mile, and a summer density of 190 people per square mile. The DOE had calculated the population density within the area at only 62 persons per square mile.

Newry's Alva Morrison, one of the leaders in the opposition coalition, presented the DOE officials with 30 pieces of silver plus a copy of the U.S. Constitution. He said the DOE was a modern-day Judas and was about to crucify the population on a cross of plutonium.

Former Boston Celtics star Dave Cowens, who runs a summer camp in the area, suggested the DOE find an isolated spot somewhere and then move there, along with the Defense Department and the Nuclear Regulatory Commission. He said the only way of ending the waste problem is to shut down the nuclear power industry and destroy all nuclear weapons. He received a strong round of applause.

In contrast to the Feb. 10 "briefing" at LRHS, the Saturday and Sunday "hearing" was noteworthy for its relative lack of big-name politicians. At the Feb. 10 session, the governor and Senator Mitchell, plus a number of state reps and senators, were all there, and all had something to say.

This past weekend, only Rep. Olympia Snowe and Rep. John McKernan (both of whom missed the Feb. 10 session) showed up from the Congressional delegation, and only Bill Diamond and Judy Kany showed up from the state senate. Kelley Simpson was the lone state representative. Sen. Kany told The Citizen that there was some adverse reaction from residents to all the time taken up by the politicians during the Feb. 10 session. They all had their say Monday at a special hearing in Augusta that allowed politicians, and state technical experts, to make their points to the DOE.

Local politicians were present, representing their communities. An Otisfield selectmen spoke, as did officials from Gray and Poland. Ken Smith, superintendent of SAD #17, also spoke. In all, about 150 people made formal comments to the DOE officials. Some of these, and some who didn't speak at all, also submitted written comments on the draft report.

Ski patroller earns advanced certification

Gary "Butch" Fuller, full-time ski patroller at Mt. Abram Ski Slopes for 26 years and patrol leader since 1972, recently passed requirements for certification at the highest level of ski patrolling.

Mr. Fuller received his national appointment, #6183 in 1978, his P.S.P.A. (Professional Ski Patrol Association) skiing and toboggan test at Waterville Valley in 1984 and his P.S.P.A. first-aid test in 1985 at Mt. Cranmore. Requirements for certification were finalized at Hunter Mt., New York, March 21-23, in lift evacuation, hill safety and mountain management.

Mr. Fuller has been a member of the Senior Ski and Toboggan examiner staff in 1981, 1982 and 1984.

To be included in the Certified Program, a candidate must promote a level of active patrolling in which there is no compromise with excellence in skiing, first-aid techniques, patrol management, administration, and leadership, and to utilize these talents to promote safety in the sport of skiing.

Greenwood City

By COLISTA MORGAN

I like the dawn and I'm grateful for reasons strong enough to pull me from under the covers in time to see the sun rise.

Since I last wrote, I have made three morning hikes up Noyes Mountain on the crust. It was lovely at that hour, the snow sparkled and in places crystal jewels clung to the bushes.

Only the wind had walked upon the hill, except a few animal tracks, and rippled the desert of snow beneath its feet. I found this after leaving the woods to cross the fields. My inner path of thought sang my heart alive.

The evergreen branches by the pasture hill restlessly nodded and last year's oak leaves in their familiar panic before the invisible streaming of air flew over the snow and dried grass. Without the snow on them the March fields were dun dead seas, lying becalmed, colorless and defeated.

The field fell gently down the hill to the left tipping its little underground streams toward the pasture brook. I continued toward it where I found it cooler after the sunshine of the pastureland. The brook had swollen with rains and melting snow. I could hear its noisy talk as if it were a human presence hailing me. I crossed it and the ground itself was cushioned with moss, and little pools lay near me like jewels. I climbed over the barbed-wire fence (which I don't like to do now) and entered the field where stood an ancient pine. I tingled my fingers among the tassels and rustled my feet among the brown needles. It seemed like a talkative old friend with warm blood gushing through its limbs. I watched its grace in the drooping boughs as it told its thoughts by signs.

I had traveled to the Garland place and little cemetery the morning before, my first trip there in two years. This and other gray and lonely farms were once the strength of Maine. Coming back I went down the mountain through the woods and came to our spring, 750 feet above our home.

Contrasts had met me everywhere; rock and sky, light and shade, strength and frailty, endurance and evanescence, tangled and supple bushes. A total experience of solitude in a world that could have been centuries ago.

There are so many new spring things happening that it would take a book to write them all so I can't do it.

Ardell and Duane Hayes were at the farm on Saturday and had dinner with their mother. Mr. and Mrs. Nestor Tamminen had Easter dinner for their three daughters and families at their home. Doris Hayes also joined them.

Leonas and Fay Holt spent Easter with their daughter, Ann, in Bethel.

Friends in town presented Kathy Curtis and Eva Felton with an Easter basket on Saturday.

We were surprised early Thursday morning by a visit from Mr. and Mrs. Edward Widberg from Canton, Mass. They left home shortly after 4 a.m. Our other callers were Ann Holt, Bethel; my brother, Ernest Curtis, Poland; Kim Roak, town; Lettie Brooks, West Paris. Mr. and Mrs. John Betts entertained their daughter, her husband and their children over Easter weekend.

Oh, these glorious days of spring give such a lift to the spirit! Our entire lawn is now clear of snow and Bernard has begun doing a bit of raking, as have others in the neighborhood. The tulips are up and Frisky, our Siamese cat, has found the bed of catnip to frolic in. Also, the first parsnips have been dug.

Army Sgt. Warren Palmer, who is stationed in Kitzingen, Germany, called his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Palmer, on March 29 to tell them he had re-enlisted for five more years.

Howard Glover was released from Rumford Community Hospital Saturday, March 29, and is at home. He was out for a ride with his daughter, Barbara Meisner, yesterday for the first time in a very long time. Welcome home, Howard.

Clay Fyrberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Fyrberg, was taken to Maine Medical Center March 30. He is very ill. Our thoughts and prayers go out to Clay and his family.

The Easter sunrise service, presented by the choir members of the First Congregational Church, and the pancake breakfast put on by several of the men of the church were both well attended, as Nestor Tamminen was at Telstar on Tuesday where he gave a science lesson and exhibit.

Frank Curtis was in Lewiston for tests on Thursday. Fred and Rena Curtis accompanied him.

Mr. and Mrs. Nestor Tamminen helped at a sale for the Grange on Saturday.

Sonny and Sharon Bushey and three children, Waterford; Walter and Patrick Curtis, Farmington; Kenneth, Fred and Rena Curtis, local; Ernest Curtis, Poland; Kim Roak, Joan Morgan, Eva Felton were callers at Frank and Dot Curtis'.

Fred and Rena Curtis had for Easter dinner 28 guests, all family.

Rena Curtis was in Brunswick one day to see her sister, Ruth Collins.

The Home Front

By Bob Crane

Study by the League of Savings Institutions discovered that home buyers are spending a smaller percentage of their incomes on housing. One reason: they're making larger down payments.

Do-it-yourself tip for woodworkers: mark parts with chalk instead of pencil. It sands right off and does not indent the wood.

Foundation plantings grow tall; windows don't. Now's a good time to look over your property and determine if relandscaping is in order.

Glazing compound is easier to handle than regular putty around a window. Form compound into a long roll, enough to cover one side of the pane; press into place with your finger, then smooth with a putty knife.

Bedrooms should be RESTFUL. That's why designers often opt for minimal, neutral color—cream or sand perhaps, with a touch of taupe.

The Hottest Tip On The Market Today... A Casco Northern IRA (With FDIC Insurance)

Call 1-800-635-BANK*
for our competitive rates.

Planning for retirement is serious business. It takes discipline. Commitment. If you are seriously ready to invest in your future, so is Casco Northern Bank.

We are offering some of the highest interest rates on fixed and variable term certificates for Individual Retirement Accounts.

In addition, your deposits are protected by FDIC insurance.

Casco Northern also offers:

- The option of opening your IRA at any

Casco Northern location, by telephone, or even by mail. (Call 1-800-635-BANK)*

- Automatic deductions from your checking account.

- A choice of five attractive account options.

Starting an IRA with Casco Northern could be the smartest move you can make right now to help insure the financial "self-security" you may depend on during your retirement years.

So, invest in yourself.

THE AGNES GRAY SCHOOL students got a kick out of Mr. and Mrs. Fish, who taught them a lot about sea creatures last Friday, while keeping them entertained.

MRS. FISH, in the garb of a sperm whale, learns about her new appearance and behavior from Old Salt, Mr. Fish. The two appeared at Agnes Gray School last Friday for an assembly. The two are actually Jeff Sandler and Deb Hall, of South Portland. They use theatre as a vehicle to educate audiences about life in the ocean.

Spring has arrived and with it I pick up my pen and begin to write again. Recent visitors at the home of Art and Alice Wardwell have been Helen and Linwood Ring and Fred Scribner.

Barb and Howard Inman called on Richard and Hulda Stevens last Saturday night.

Easter guests at the home of Fred and Lib Scribner were Dave and Kathleen Scribner and Joe and Mary Feaskeon. Other visitors there have been Mr. and Mrs. John Russell, John Buck and Norm Rust.

We are all glad to hear that our friends and neighbors, Bud and Florine Bowden are on their way home to Albany for the summer.

Recent callers at the Barton Farm have been Roger and Yvette Barton, Grampa Frank Barton, Harvey Barton and friend, Monday Margaret and Brett went to Portland and Conway. Brett will graduate from University of Southern Maine in May, so he is job hunting.

Iva Andrews Keniston, 17 LaSalle St., Portland, Maine is a patient for the second time in two weeks at Maine Medical Center. Her first stay was brought about by a heart attack, followed this time by pneumonia. She is recovering slowly. Cards and notes are welcome.

All is fine at K-D's Acres. The plants are growing quickly with all the warm weather. We're all getting itchy to start planting and spending our time outside. Doug spent last weekend with his friend, Robby Matheson. Dick and I went out to lunch last Saturday. Callers have been Jeff, Jim and Brett Barton, Margaret Barton and Joanne Grover. Have a good week everyone.

Mark Lescault was painfully injured in a chain saw accident last week at his home. He was taken by Bethel ambulance to the Norway hospital for several stitches in his knee. Since his accident the Lescaults have been staying with his parents in West Paris.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Awalt of Augusta were overnight visitors of her mother, Mrs. Elmira Doyen, Easter Sunday. On Monday they all visited Mrs. Alfreda York and Mr. York in Vermont.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Salway, son Brandon and myself enjoyed dinner and the afternoon on Easter Sunday with the Bean-Turner family in Otisfield.

Mrs. Winnie Wilke and daughter Mrs. Connie Sukefarth and two little girls, Jessica and Courtney from Gardner were recent visitors here.

I visited Mrs. Irene Hutchinson of South Paris Friday morning. She was a former resident of Bethel. She celebrated her 84th birthday on Sunday.

Many things can bring us wealth but only friends can bring us joy.

Granite Chapter #115, O.E.S. will meet on Thursday, April 10 at 7:30 p.m., at which time the installation of new officers will be performed. Refreshments will be served after the meeting.

There will be a rummage sale at Goodwill Hall of the Universalist Church on April 19 at 10 a.m. Anyone having rummage to dispose of may bring it to the church on Thursday or Friday evenings, April 17 or 18.

The Easter services and breakfast of the Universalist Church were very well attended and what a gorgeous day it was. Hard to believe that a March Easter could be so warm.

Guests at the home of Sayward and Cynthia Lamb on Easter Sunday were their son James and Diane Lamb, Christina and Kelsey of Oxford; their daughter Natalie and Blaine Morse, Mandy and Nathan of Oakland; and Cynthia's mother, Mrs. Nina Allen of Buckfield.

Having dinner on Easter at Vernon Inman's were Mrs. Elsie Pirainen, Charles and Vicky Sanborn, Conway, N.H.; Marshall and Susan Inman, Laura Doggett, North Conway, N.H.; and Walter and Kim Inman, Vernie and Walter, Jr.

Albert Downing is a patient at Stephens Memorial Hospital where he has had surgery.

Mr. and Mrs. James Miclon entertained at an Easter dinner Sunday noon. Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Miclon, Jim's parents, his brother Michael and sister Maureen and Kim Bennett.

Esther Davis had Easter dinner with her daughter Pat Tibbetts and family. Olive Davis attended a birthday gathering with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Andrews and families. The honored guests were Daphne Hooven and Charity Smith. They were 14 years and 4 years respectively. They were recipients of many gifts.

It's time to start your seedlings. I have three kinds of tomatoes started. I am planning to make my relish next August. I know they are pure if I raise my own, I hope.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Brooks and Olive Davis attended Pomona Tuesday night at Norway.

Mr. and Mrs. Karl Thompson of Belfast spent Easter weekend with their daughter and husband, Marta and Nicholas Clements. Mrs. Clements' brother, John Rohde of Tilton, N.H., spent the weekend also. Their son, Bruce, called from California. Our Easter Sunday temperature compared very favorably with Sunnyvale, Calif. Their son, David, called also via radio-patch from Antarctica. It is the beginning of their winter and is becoming very dark and very cold, but all was well. He sends greetings to his friends and neighbors from there.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Miclon who lived in Buckfield lost their home by fire Friday, March 28. They are with their son, Jim Miclon at present. Raymond Miclon had a heart attack and is in the Norway hospital at present. Our sympathy goes out to the family.

Easter Sunday guests at Mr. and Mrs. Ray Harrington's were Dewaine and Sarah Craig, Adam and Beth. The kids enjoyed an Easter egg hunt in the afternoon.

Robbie Harrington telephoned home on the holiday from Alabama. Patrick Harrington has been ill with the flu all week.

Florence Beck, Randolph, N.H., and Robert Deegan, Saco, visited Joe and Leah Deegan on Sunday. Marguerite and day temperature compared very favorably with Sunnyvale, Calif. Their son, David, called also via radio-patch from Antarctica. It is the beginning of their winter and is becoming very dark and very cold, but all was well. He sends greetings to his friends and neighbors from there.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Miclon who lived in Buckfield lost their home by fire Friday, March 28. They are with their son, Jim Miclon at present. Raymond Miclon had a heart attack and is in the Norway hospital at present. Our sympathy goes out to the family.

Vernon Brown, South Paris, also visited recently.

Joe and Muriel Gilbert were in Norway Thursday.

Visitors at Irene Wilson's have been: Gloria Wilson; Sandy Wilson, Amy and Seth; and Alan Wilson, who has been doing the spring yard work for Irene.

FOR MILLIONS OF AMERICANS A
HOME SATELLITE TELEVISION DISH
IS THE ONLY OPTION

Millions of rural American households simply cannot receive the benefits of cable television. Some cannot even receive regular television as we know it. Now with satellite television they can. There are hundreds of movies, sports and variety programs available to home satellite T.V. owners, and rural America can now more than satisfy their appetite with diversified, quality programming. As a matter of fact, home satellite T.V. dish owners aren't phased by the scrambling of a few signals, because scrambled channels are also available through subscription. This combination offers innumerable options to the home satellite T.V. owner.

By HARRIETT STOWELL

Michael Grant of Yarmouth called on his grandmother, Ann Mason recently. Maxine Lovejoy and her grandson, Richard Farren Jr. were in Putney, Vt., this past weekend to visit her daughter and son-in-law, Bill and Davene Mitchell. Jeanie Murphy of Hawthorne, N.J., came back here for a week's visit with her mother.

There were an estimated 150 to 175 people in attendance at the sunrise service and breakfast held at the Pleasant Valley Bible Church Easter Sunday.

Rosemary Stowell of Woburn, Mass., spent several days with her parents over last weekend.

Helmi Loffreda of Portland was a guest of her cousin Cathryn Lovejoy over Easter.

Jamie Lewis, daughter of Rick and Barbara Lewis, has catalogued and set up a small library of books for children aged from about three to ten. It will be open almost anytime except Sunday and all neighborhood children are welcome. From time to time there will be activities of interest to youngsters, such as games and storytime.

The Bethel Lions Club will sponsor a FREE GLAUCOMA and DIABETIC CLINIC, on Saturday, April 19 between 9 a.m. and 12 noon, at the Bethel Lions Den (100F Hall) Main Street, Bethel.

This clinic is open to all persons within SAD #44. For more information contact Eldon Greenleaf at 824-2040 or Ed Friel at 824-2107. More information on the clinic will be published when available. THIS IS A FREE CLINIC.

PLANNING COMMITTEE FORMED

The Newry Planning Board has recently formed a Planning Committee. Its purpose will be to collect and organize information necessary to develop the town's comprehensive plan. Heading the committee are Ann Friedlander and Veronica Smith. All residents interested in any aspect of the Comprehensive Plan are encouraged to participate and should contact Veronica Smith at 824-3197.

Ladies Chapel Aid of the West Bethel Union Church will hold its monthly meeting on April 9 at the church at 7:30 p.m.

The annual meeting of the West Bethel Union Church will be held at the church on Thursday, April 10 at 7:30 p.m. New hymnal racks have recently been placed in the church, made and donated by Arthur Gilbert. A point of interest is that the original racks were made by his father, the late Robert Gilbert.

Ann Mason had the misfortune on Wednesday to fall in her yard and fracture her arm near the shoulder and will be laid up for some time.

Ginny Walker will sing gospel songs at the Pleasant Valley Bible Church this Sunday, April 13, at 6:30 p.m., not 7, as previously stated.

A street fight erupted near the schoolhouse as the bus driver walked home after parking the school bus. A local taxpayer allegedly accosted the driver with verbal abuse and gestures, until the driver turned to leave, whereupon the taxpayer allegedly kicked him in the seat of the pants. More words, gestures and passes ensued before each man, accompanied by a young lad, went his way. The fracas reportedly stemmed from problems between two older boys on the bus.

CADET sponsoring talent show at Telstar Saturday, April 12

Saturday evening, April 12, the annual talent show, sponsored by CADET to help finance Project Graduation, will be presented at Telstar Regional High School auditorium beginning at 7 o'clock. The show entitled TEL-STAR SEARCH, will feature a variety of amateur acts with plenty of comedy, music and fun. Special entertainment, while the judges are reaching their decision, will be vocal and instrumental selections by Don Katlin, Terry Martin and Jewel Clark.

Master of Ceremonies Harry Davis promises a fun evening for everyone and an enjoyable way to help support a chemical free graduation party for Telstar's class of 1986.

Notes from the Woodstock Historical Society

The following are the titles of Arthur Wellesley, 1st Duke of Wellington, who probably collected as many titles as any noble in British history:

Marquess of Wellington; Earl of Wellington in Somerset; Viscount Wellington of Talavera; Baron Douro of Wellesley; Prince of Waterloo; Duke of Ciudad Rodrigo; Duke of Vittoria; Marquess of Torres Vedras; Count of Vimiero; Duke of Brunoy; Field Marshal; Commander in Chief; Colonel of the Grenadier; Marshal of the Armies; Grandee of Spain; Knight of the Garter; of the Holy Ghost; of the Golden Fleece; Grand Cross of the Bath; of St. Andrew; of Maria Theresa; of St. Hesmerigilda; of the Red Eagle; Privy Councillor; Member of Parliament; Prime Minister; Lord High Constable; Constable of the Tower; Constable of Dover Castle; Lord Warden of the Cinque Ports; Lord Lieutenant of Hampshire; and Chancellor of the University of Oxford.

The next Society meeting will be held at the museum building. It will feature Francis Vail speaking on Indian artifacts.

WRITE TO LEARN

Steer This Way By Win Carrick

America's first auto race, in 1895, was from Chicago to Evanston, Illinois, and back. The winner's record was 54 miles in 9 hours!

Do seat belts matter? In Victoria, Australia, traffic fatalities dropped 37 percent, and injuries went down 41 percent, over the first four years a law required their use.

Radial tires save up to 6 percent on fuel costs, and their smooth ride and longer life—up to 40,000 miles—compensate for any additional cost.

When using booster cables, make sure that both batteries are of the same voltage.

"Valve train" is made up of the engine valves and the various parts that operate them, such as the lifters, springs, and pushrods.

We know the language of cars. Let us translate that know-how into a new or (late-model used) car that's just right for your needs.

METHODIST CHURCH YOUTH PRESENTING 'IT'S COOL IN THE FURNACE' APRIL 9 & 13

The Church School children and youth of the Bethel United Methodist Church will be presenting the very popular, "It's Cool in the Furnace" on Wednesday, April 9, at 1 p.m. at the United Methodist Church for the Senior Citizens of the greater Bethel area, and again on Sunday, April 13, at the 10:30 a.m. worship service. This musical (lyrics by Grace Hawthorne and music composed by Burry Red) is based on the Biblical story of four young boys—Daniel, Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego—who refused to bow down to worship the idol of King Nebuchadnezzar.

Director, Sally Downing, describes this musical as being "lots of fun for people of all ages. But, it is especially exciting, when the scriptures of our faith come alive in the lives of the young people."

Daniel will be played by Jamie Blake, son of Bob and Cindy Blake; fiery King Nebuchadnezzar will be portrayed by Jason Adams, son of Charlie and Debbie Adams. Ms. Liz Mikenas will play the accompaniment on the piano.

Tri-Town Rescue

Tri-Town Rescue has scheduled a general membership meeting Thursday, April 10, at 8 p.m. at Ledgewood to vote on plans for a new ambulance barn and training facility. Anyone with suggestions is requested to come and add their input. Land has been purchased on Route 26 at Trap Corner. Warren Emery has drawn preliminary plans for the building. He has also contacted Walter (Bud) Lowell of Region 11, to see if the building trades students could build the structure.

The auxiliary is planning a walk-bike-a-thon for Sunday, April 26. Please keep that date open. More details will be available at a later date.

Safety Tip of the Week
Spring has sprung. The weather has warmed up. The urge to get out and rake, weed, or prepare the garden is very strong. Remember not to overdo. Our bodies have taken it easy during the winter months. It is easy for a heart condition to develop or be aggravated with too much physical exercise without proper preparation.

The Ladies Circle will meet April 16 at the Sunday School room. Mary Mills will be making the birthday cake.

The Greenwood Fire Department will hold a training session on Tuesday, April 15 at 6:30 p.m. at the fire station.

The Oxford County Council will be meeting Tuesday, April 15 at 7:30 p.m. with the Jackson-Silver Post and Auxiliary at the Legion home.

It is surprising how fast the snow has gone in this community this past week. Only scattered patches in shady areas are left. Some residents have already heard the spring "peepers."

Vera Cross and Charlotte Cole were among those attending Hello, Dolly! in Bethel Friday evening. From reports the performance was outstanding.

Jeannette Knight visited St. Joseph's College on Sebago Lake with her granddaughters, Dianne and Darlene Campbell, when the college was having open house Wednesday, March 19. Dianne will choose between St. Joseph's and the University of Southern Maine when she attends college in the fall. She has been accepted by both schools.

Irving and Ellen Cole spent the weekend with their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. James Libby and family in Bangor.

Jeannette Knight visited Edward and Helen Chase Tuesday and she and Charlie took supper with them. On Thursday, Jeannette visited with her daughter Marianne and family in East Waterford.

Vera Cross, Charlotte Cole, Bertha Flanders, Grace Day, Georgia and Mansfield Packard, Don Bennett and Marion Swan all attended the Senior Citizen dinner in Woodstock Thursday.

Lester Coolidge Jr. returned to Battle Creek, Mich., Friday after visiting friends and relatives in town for several days.

Bruce Campbell, grandson of Jeannette Knight is out of the navy and has returned home to his father's in West Sumner.

Mr. and Mrs. John Mills attended the Easter Sunrise service and breakfast at the Pleasant Valley Bible Church, then went to Mexico to attend the morning worship at the Praise Assembly of God. They had dinner at a restaurant in Farmington and spent the afternoon visiting their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Jon Smith in Dryden. In the evening they attended an Easter Cantata at the Calvary Hill Baptist Church. Both Marcia and Jon, plus Cami Warren, a senior at the Calvary Hill Christian Academy, who has been staying at the Smith home this year, were in the cantata. Jon and Cami also had solo parts. Everyone contributed to an excellent performance.

Fannie Baker, Jeannette Knight's aunt, underwent surgery Feb. 18 in Concord, N.H. She and her husband Alphonse have been staying with their daughter and husband, Pauline and Jean Coriveau. They expect to return to their home in West Newfield shortly.

Anne Troy visited Charlotte Cole and had Easter dinner with her.

Bertha Flanders has been busy attending Eastern Star meetings. She went to Bethel Tuesday; Norway, Thursday; and to an installation meeting in Rumford Friday.

Harry Swan Jr. has been taking Fridays off from his work at the Gilbert

I should have written this yesterday but had to get ready to go to the doctor's so put it off until today, which is Wednesday. What beautiful weather we have been having. Too bad it hasn't gotten rid of the bug that has been pestering everyone so much, me included. Seems as though I have been at the doctor's more than at home.

I hope everyone had a better Easter than I did. I had been in the drug store to get prescriptions filled and as I am allergic to most everything that smells, I was sick. Allergies are so aggravating if one has as many as I do. Never used to have such troubles but can't say the same any more. All I have to do is get near flowers that smell or someone with perfume or afterhave lotion or something like that and I can be sick. Some Manufacturing Company to use up his vacation time.

A memorial service for Keith Ring was held Monday at the church with Silver Leamon officiating. Also the choir rendered an anthem.

Lorraine Mills attended a prayer meeting at Pete and Kathy Kimball's on Tuesday evening as the Gospel Center is having their yearly week of prayer services this week.

The science fair at Telstar March 25 was well attended by students and parents from this area.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Swan Jr. entertained Mrs. Herbert Rowe, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Swan, Stacy and Joshua, Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Swan and Rebecca, and Todd Swan at dinner on Easter.

Jeannette and Charlie Knight were guests of their daughter and family at an Easter breakfast in East Waterford.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Howe, Bryant Pond, had Vera Cross, Rowena Dunham and John Howe as guests at Easter dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. John Mills joined Cindy Brown, Joan Wiggett, Dot Chopping and Wanda Judkins for their monthly evening of prayer at the home of Rev. Lyle and Marilyn Van Horn in Mexico Friday evening.

The Fire Department had a pretty good turn-out for their meeting Tuesday evening. The men had a chance to see the good progress that is being made on the truck that Andre Bernier and Paul Kimball are working on for the department. It was also reported that the department has bought a big tank for the tanker truck and it was being brought to the town garage sometime this week.

There were 24 members and guests present at the meeting of the Greenwood Historical Society Wednesday. Peter Kimball showed his slides on Alaska. At the meeting members voted to continue the old time dances indefinitely. The last dance netted $136 for the building fund. The next dance is scheduled for April 26. It was voted to have some 1987 calendars printed. Barbara Dunham furnished the refreshments. Joanne Kimball will furnish them for the May meeting.

folks break out like hives, but I have the misfortune to have it bother my breathing, which is pure misery. I will be glad when the weather lets me get outside more and see if that will help. I can sure sympathize with others who have allergies as I do.

Wanted to go to church but don't dare because of the flowers. Have wanted to go visit friends but so many of them have cats or plants and I'd end up sick, so have been confined to home pretty much lately. Even find that some of the doctors' offices hold things that cause me trouble. Isn't that something?

Had something real good the other night. Lawrence had some trees tapped and gave Russell a small jar of syrup. Boy, did it taste good.

Russell has been out and shoveled the snow around and with the good weather, it has melted and the yard is nearly clear. I was out yesterday looking around and found a miracle. I didn't suppose that spinach or swiss chard would live in the ground over a winter period but found new sprouts of both starting to come where Russell had left them and not pulled them as he had other things. Maybe we will have nice fresh greens real early. Wouldn't that be great?

There has been lots of mechanical work going on at Lawrence's lately as Alvin has had some of his woods machinery there for repairs. At the moment, it has been done and moved so the space looks empty.

Have had a couple of callers lately. One was the Fuller Brush lady and the other was the Rawleigh man, J.B. Emery. Always have been glad to see him come but didn't feel like joking with him this time. That's bad.

I did go to Bethel with my daughter, granddaughters and foster daughter last Saturday to attend a baby shower for my niece, Darnita. She is to have an addition to her family real soon now and I wish her all the luck in the world. It was good to see her as it has been nearly a year since I last saw her. Her small daughter is real anxious for the new baby to arrive and I am sure she will be a big help to her mother.

I was sorry to miss out on the "What Not" sale at the West Paris Grange Hall last Saturday. Have talked with Mary Lovejoy and she said she thought they had a real successful sale. The funds were for the elevator they hope to get. Lots of food, as well as a fish pond for the kids and this and that for sale, making it a lot of fun and getting money needed.

They have had good luck with the papers and folks keep calling in about papers. I am glad to relay messages to Audrey Miller or some of the others if called, but be sure there are papers enough to make it worthwhile for them to make the trip to pick them up. It does cost to run a car.

A birthday party was given for Priscilla Brett at Judy and David Billings with a good attendance. Hope all had a good time. I hope I got this right as my head isn't working the best this morning. If I make a mistake, please forgive me.

I would like to thank the nice friend from New York, Anita McCarty, for the nice Easter card and hankie. It was a lovely thought and I appreciate it more than I can say. She read that I hadn't been in the best of health and the card was a real bright spot in my day, when it arrived. Thanks again.

I forgot to say that West Paris Grange plans another sale the first Saturday in June if all goes well. They have had such good luck and the ladies are trying so hard to do all that is possible to get the elevator. The men, too. Mustn't leave them out as they have done so much. I wish them the best and hope to help at the next sale in some small way. Guess that's all for now. Take care one and all.

Robert G. Betz, of Gilbert Mfg. Corp., formerly Ekco Wood Products, of Locke Mills, has been named plant manager by President Duane L. Gilbert. Mr. Betz, a native of New Jersey, graduated from the University of Maine at Orono in 1976 with a Bachelor of Science Degree in Forest Utilization and has worked exclusively in the wood products industry since that time. He joined Ekco Wood Products in 1981 as industrial engineer and in 1983 was promoted to plant superintendent/assistant plant manager by then Plant Manager Duane Gilbert. Mr. Betz resides in Bethel with his wife, Johanna, and his two children, Devon and Robert. He is keyperson of the Western Maine Industrial Management Club.

COUNTY COUNCIL TO MEET

The Oxford County Council, American Legion and Auxiliary, will meet at the Locke Mills Legion Hall on Tuesday, April 15, at 7:30 p.m. A lunch will follow.
